

Michael's Way is a 501 (c) 3 nonprofit organization which was founded by Christopher McElwee in 2002 to honor his brother, Michael, who passed away due to leukemia. Chris always knew he wanted to do something special to honor his brother and he found his inspiration at work on a construction site. He met a man who had lost his house shortly after his son was diagnosed with leukemia. The family did not have medical benefits and they were in debt with their household bills. This gave Chris and his friend, Barry Arfa, the idea to start a charity to help support families who have a child with cancer.

The mission of Michael's Way is to help families of children with cancer cope with the extraordinary expenses that come about as a direct result of the child's illness. What makes Michael's Way unique is that there are no overhead expenses and 100% of all money donated goes directly to those families in need.
